RULES.

Old Stocktonians' Association.

Revised October, 1929.

1.—The name of the Association shall be the "Old Stocktonians."

2.—The Association shall be open to the Old Boys of the Stockton Secondary School and of the late Higher Grade School. Past and present members are also eligible.

3.—The government of the Association shall be vested in three Presidents, six Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, two Secretaries and a Committee of sixteen, together with the Secretary of each sub-section.

(a) The present and retired headmasters shall be Presidents ex-officio.

The third shall be elected annually.

(b) All the other officials shall be elected annually.

(c) A member holding any office shall be eligible for re-election in the following year, in the same or any capacity.

(d) In Committee seven shall form a quorum.

(e) The Committee shall have power to co-opt any member or members at their discretion for the time being for any particular purpose.

4.—The Committee shall have power to refuse membership to any applicant for admission or to ask any member to resign (after investigation by the Committee and confirmation by a general meeting), whose conduct they consider such as to militate against the welfare of the Association.

5.—Each Section shall be self-governing and self-supporting. The Committee, however, shall have power to grant financial aid to any section.

Each Section shall submit its programme to the General Committee for approval.

6.—The Annual Subscription shall be one shilling for the first two years after leaving School—after that it shall be two shillings—payable to any member of the Committee, before January 1st. In lieu of an Annual Subscription, a Life Subscription of twenty-five shillings may be made.

7.—These Rules shall be altered only at the Annual General Meeting, and then only by a two-thirds majority; all motions of such alterations to be in the hands of the Secretaries four days before the date of such meeting.

PREFACE.

“The moving finger writes and having writ moves on.”

Page 1931 is now almost all bescrewed for good or ill. The Association year—October 1st, 1930, to September 30th, 1931—indeed is well complete, and the time has come to review our position and estimate our gains and losses.

* * * *

Subscriptions are now pouring in for the current year. Hurry up, ye laggards! You will never miss the humble florin. Or, better still, make a special effort once for all and send along the twenty-five shillings for life-membership. No less than 44 members have now taken this oft re-iterated advice. Think of the happiness of treasurer and secretary if this number were four hundred or so!

* * * *

Finance looms large in everyone's experience—now more than ever. Those who seek some tangible return for their subscription may be interested to know that more than half the amount goes to the production of this year book.

* * * *

Among your many charities this Christmas-time do not forget our Benevolent Fund. It is doing valuable work, but cannot exist without funds. The need is as great—or greater—than ever.

* * * *

We are proud of what we do for the poor children of Stockton and district. Our scope has been extended of late years. Two evenings now see—and hear—the gymnasium and assembly room crowded and resonant with happy and well-filled children. The summer treat to Longnewton is also a well-established feature. This year the weather was unkind, but the food was no less nor worse, and much merriment was heard inside the hut, even though the outer world remained churlish. Thanks to all who subscribed and made these entertainments possible, and to all who gave personal assistance.

* * * *

An Englishman clinches a bargain, celebrates a joyful occasion, or gives evidence of corporate union by the larger (or smaller)—usually larger—consumption of food in public. The Old Stocktonians are no mean trenchermen. The Annual Dinner is our state occasion which all genuine loyal Old Stocktonians should endeavour to attend. Last year's dinner was quite up to standard and more than usually safe, for both Dr. Hall and Dr. Dickie were present in case anyone should be suffering from under nutrition. Dr. Dickie, by the way, was a charming principal guest, his speech a model of humour and genuine pathos. But see the special account of these activities.

The dinner does not represent the whole of the Stocktonian carnivorous achievements. On two separate and individual occasions members have foregathered for the consumption of pie suppers. The first meeting is described as being very homely, genial and enjoyable. The second took place in the country—at Middleton-one-Row to be precise. Various rumours with regard to this are in circulation for which enquire of members who were present—and when found make a note of !

* * * *

Only one dance has been held during the year. Our dances are held for our members and their friends and we are not anxious to go out into the hedges and byeways in order to have overflowing numbers and a handsome profit. At the same time we naturally like to pay our way. This dance was very enjoyable, a pleasant family gathering which didn't quite pay its way but only just failed to do so.

* * * *

Old Stocktonians have given splendid evidence of the value of their school training, both of intellect and of character. The list, given elsewhere, of recent achievements may well be described as impressive. We may perhaps underline the fact that three old boys gained their degrees with first-class honours in final examinations:—Mr. A. W. Foster, 1st Class Hons., Physics, Leeds; Mr. A. L. Ingman, 1st Class Hons. Mathematics, Manchester; and Mr. R. Metcalfe, 1st Class Hons. English, Manchester. Among those of a slightly earlier generation, Dr. T. Hagyard has during the year gained the Ph. D. of London University.

Nor is it only in the academic sphere that Old Stocktonians have given evidence of outstanding ability. Mr. F. R. Lax has recently been elected chairman of the Pickering (Yorkshire) Urban District Council; Mr. M. Hale has received the important appointment of Grain Silo Manager, at King George Dock, Hull.

Present pupils give promise of following in such worthy footsteps. Thirteen candidates sat the Higher Certificate examination and all were successful—100% of passes! Stanley Proud gained a distinction in each of his three principal subjects and was placed highest in the County. He was awarded a state scholarship, which the school much appreciated because they were given an extra day at half term in celebration. The School Certificate results were scarcely less satisfactory. The percentage of passes was 87·3% and there were no less than twenty-three distinctions. At the Civil Service Clerical and General examination last Spring six boys were among those accepted for appointments.

Never was it more necessary than now for a boy to secure every possible qualification for a situation. It is largely owing to the difficulty of obtaining situations that our sixth form is larger than ever before—is indeed almost unwieldy.

* * * *

The school sporting activities are reported in their due place at considerable length in order that the records of events may be preserved from year to year. We would only add here that the six schools competition, which is such an interesting fixture, is now to be supplemented by a joint cross-country run. We do hope that our athletes will take these events seriously and not simply wake up to the fact that a meeting is near a week or two before it takes place. Cricket has always been a difficulty with us, and even now we are not nearly so well off in our sports field and sporting opportunities as are most of our rivals. A further effort has been made to overcome our handicap by the increase of the area of our sports field which is levelled for cricket pitches.

School journeys at home and abroad are among the most striking features of modern education. A band of Stocktonians enjoyed the great privilege of a conducted tour in Germany this summer. The tour was organised to give a fine outdoor life, and varied and interesting experience, and there is little doubt that memories, which will last as long as life, will remain from what was to most of them their first visit to the continent. In addition parties have enjoyed day trips to Rievaulx and Whitby Abbeys. Rather more severely scholastic was an expedition of some of the Science Sixth Form to London to visit the exhibition of the Society of Chemical Industries. A very delightful and improving day was spent in Town.

* * * *

Music has been given an increasingly important place in school. Musical appreciation has figured on the time table for a number of years. For three years good music has been presented for some forty minutes after school each Wednesday of the winter terms. During the past year a beginning has been made with a school orchestra. Very keen, very faithful are its members and they are bound to go ahead.

* * * *

Last term we said good-bye to an old and valued friend. Mr. J. W. Eden came to us in January, 1910, as head of the French department; since the retirement of Mr. Taylor he has been senior assistant master. At the presentation, tribute was paid to the earnest thoroughness of his work for which many Old Boys have reason to be grateful. In his willing self-sacrifice, his extensive and accurate scholarship, and his conscientious devotion to duty, Mr. Eden was a model to the school. He hopes soon to be settled at the garden city of Welwyn, Herts, where we hope he will enjoy many years of usefulness, rest and happiness.

* * * *

The individual departs the institution lives on. We welcome this term Mr. J. G. Rattenbury, B.A. Mr. Rattenbury, who is an Old Boy of Kingswood School, Bath, is an honours graduate of London University in Modern Languages (French and Spanish). He has already shown himself interested in the life of the school; he is enthusiastic and sympathetic and gives every promise of being a valuable addition to the staff.

* * * *

This summary of our activities will, we hope, be sufficient to assure our friends and Old Boys that the school is flourishing exceedingly even as the green bay tree. To them all it sends its message of kindly remembrance and interest, with all good wishes for the season of peace and happiness, and with earnest hopes for health, sweet content and prosperity in 1932 and in the future.

May day improve on day, and year on year,
Without a pain, a trouble, or a fear.

School Sports—July 23rd, 1931.

"Twenty-first Annual Sports"! Can it really be twenty years since those first sports in Coronation year when poor Ivor Grant—you will read his name on our war memorial—then in the fourth form (and that corresponds to our present third you must remember) won the mile race and, while his elders gasped, and panted, and rolled about, calmly explained how he had once run three miles for an orange? Eheu! Eheu! but our concern is with 1931 and not with 1911.

The day was eventful in all the senses of the word; most of the events were pleasant, and some—not so pleasant. The performances in general were quite good. W. Walton's was quite a good jump (4' 11") but why, oh why, did he stop at 4' 8" at Darlington where 4' 11½" won the event? The mile, too, was very well contested, indeed A. W. Walton's time was practically equal to the record—a very fine performance and promising well,—but our record is 7 secs. slower than the time achieved at Darlington. Walton must rub out that 7 secs. (or more) before the next inter-school meeting at Middlesbrough. But alas! one of the events not so pleasant! For several years we boasted that we finished the full sixteen in this race; recently we have had some who dropped out; this year, for the first time for many years, some boys failed to turn out. This is not only discreditable to the House but it is to condemn the House to almost certain failure, for it is very unlikely that they can win the race when they start with a handicap of 16 points against them. House captains should see that this does not occur again.

A more pleasing subject of comment is the excellent throwing of S. Walker in the cricket ball contest. His throw against a strong wind was 82 yds. 2½ ft.—only four yds. behind the record. Later, throwing with the wind, he managed 89 yds., but the average of these two left him a little behind the record which still stands.

The Senior Championship has never been so open. The Champion could only muster five points, and four other seniors collected four points each! The Junior Championship on the other hand was "a famous victory," F. Trotter collecting ten points out of a possible twelve. This does not, however, constitute a record, for W. Buckle (who was vaunting a particularly attractive pair of plus fours on the field on sports day) collected a like number in 1926.

Mrs. J. W. Eden presented the prizes and received the tribute of a cordial cheer.

Some 500 teas were served to a numerous, select and obviously interested company of spectators.

One word more. We always boasted of the good sportsmanship of our people! they did their very best for School or House with no more reward than the honour and sport, with only a certificate to record a success. It will be very regrettable if the return to prize-giving should warp the spirit of true sportsmanship. Prize or no prize, it is the sport and the sporting spirit that matters. No loss of a prize can excuse, no prize compensate for, a failure in sportsmanship.

To all our helpers our most grateful thanks!

Fourth Inter-School Sports,

Darlington, Friday, June 26th, 1931.

No, we are not hiding our heads with shame, even though we do stand last in the list of points and seem to have specialised in thirds. We maintain that, as a team performance, four thirds is a more desirable achievement than one first, or even than one first and one third; and we don't care if Bishop Auckland and Middlesbrough do hear us say so,—though, of course, we must recognise that the last took the field without their fine athlete J. W. Anderson, who could not tear himself away from an examination. And, as we were saying, if you run third in a six-school race you have beaten three other fellows. Anyhow, each of our representatives, save one, handed in his point for the school, and all ran pluckily and well. Mind, we don't mean to say that we shall always be satisfied to occupy this lowly position, but the lesson to be learnt is obviously the steady and regular training and practice for a particular type of event.

These sports will furnish a splendid training ground and opposition worthy their best efforts for the pick of our athletes. In their speeches after the distribution of certificates, by Mrs. Taylor, of Darlington, Mr. Edwards, Head of Middlesbrough, and the Rev. H. D. Littler, Head of Coatham, spoke of their admiration for the clean and sportsmanlike attitude of all the competitors, and expressed their hope that these joint meetings would develop into a big Public School sports meeting, which should be for the public schools of the North what the Stamford Bridge meeting is for the public schools of the South. If this should be so, we shall make our boast that we were among the earliest schools to be represented there.

Swimming Sports,

Monday, October 12th, 1931.

If there were no outstanding thrills this year there was much ground for satisfaction. There was a good number of entries, and dives and breast stroke and such deserving, though often overlooked, evidences of good swimming showed that excellent work is being done.

It must be admitted that neither times nor distances were at all exciting. The time for the three lengths was not too bad, and Pope's plunge and J. A. Scott's swimming under water deserve mention as being not too noticeably behind the existing records.

It was, perhaps, a good thing that rewards were so well distributed. J. G. Stirling was second to J. B. Bradley in the championship events last year. This year the two tied, and R. L. Pope—who has been something of a dark horse—was only half a point behind. Similarly, the best House led by only one point and was only 13 points ahead of the worst,—a very much closer union than is usual.

We should like to refer especially to the performance of R. P. Carling. Carling is a bonny bouncing babe among the "under thirteens." He did very well indeed to carry off the School Handicap and Junior Medal, and throughout showed fine enthusiasm and determination. If he continues to grow in stature and skill he should make a very fine swimmer indeed before he leaves school.

We were exceedingly pleased that our distinguished "Old Boy," Councillor J. Spark, was able and willing to come to us and distribute the medals and the grade certificates gained during the season—which he did so gracefully, and was given a rousing reception. There was also a good number of friends with us. When we get the new baths we shall hope to accommodate them more comfortably!

There was some "booming" mingled with the cheering. This was mainly given in something of a "chaffing" spirit, nevertheless it is out of place and had better be omitted in future as more becoming to those who know no better. We do.

School Football and Cricket.

SOCCER HOUSE MATCHES.

The football season dawned under the customary grey English skies and it was only with difficulty that the full programme was completed. Green and Blue lined up practically the same as the year before, whilst Red and Brown, particularly the former, started with a team of raw recruits. With half the season over, Blue had not lost a point and Red had not gained one. The return fixtures witnessed a considerable change, the mighty Blue falling victims to Red after a hard fight. The deciding match (Blue v Green) was incidentally the last and the most exciting. Blue House were one point ahead of Green in the Table, and, ten minutes from the end of the game were winning 3-2, whereupon a brilliant flash by the Green forwards resulted in three more goals to their credit in almost as many minutes. This was the third year in succession that Green had reached the coveted Eldorado, the Football Cup.

Prominent goal scorers for the various House Teams were:— H. McKecknie (Blue) 9, Ions (Green) 8, Anderson (Blue) 6, Smith and Marsden (Brown) 5, and Coates (Red) 4.

SOCCKER FIRST XI.

The general exodus of almost all of the "old brigade" at the end of season 1929-30 handicapped J. B. Ions in selecting his 1st XI. However the team forged ahead, undaunted, as is the custom in Schola nostra. The eleven had two wins to its credit and one draw, surely a triumph in that season of adversity. However out of the gloom which enshrouded those heroes shone several lights, the chief of which was Ions, who justified his position as captain and centre-forward by scoring 18 goals out of an aggregate of 27 for the team.

SECOND XI.

The record of the Second XI compared very favourably with that of the senior XI, six matches being won out of a possible seven. The goal scoring of the team was carried out by Harrison (10), who gained most of his goals by beautiful, well-timed shots from the wing, Smith (8) and Innis (6).

RUGBY.

No House Matches were played during the season 1930-31 owing to the inclement weather and the demand of the longer established Soccer Competition. The dominant feature in the School XV was its extreme youth, only 5 members of the previous year's XV (and these the lightest and youngest) being left to carry on the good work.

As the season advanced the team (goaded on by a battle-song peculiarly its own) gained more confidence in its own powers, until, glory of glories, it brought about the defeat of those venerable gentlemen the Old Boys. A School XV, strengthened by one or two stalwarts home for the Christmas Vacation, managed to hold the Stockton II XV to a draw. The information is gained from a reliable source that the improvement was due to stringently following the old maxim "early to bed" instead of more popular diversions. Two members of the team Coates and Breckon gained recognition with the County Selection Committee, whilst it is beyond question that if the County Junior XV match had taken place we should have been well represented. Players worthy of mention were: Coates (Captain), Breckon, Lonsdale, Brown, Atkinson and Stirling.

CRICKET.

It was hoped that the Cricket XI of 1931 would show some brightness in that year of school sporting eclipse. Flashes were indeed forthcoming but they were few and far between, although the high standard of play shown by the team was maintained throughout the year, the defeats being by a narrow margin only. However, what the boys lost in mere runs they gained in experience. This experience was clearly shown when, at the end of the season a strong eleven of Old Boys was defeated. The Old Boys, thinking the school easy prey, attempted to force the pace, but a strong cross-wind and clever alterations of pace and length by Sutherland led to their speedy dismissal, so that the school were able to win with 4 wickets in hand.

The first win of the season was against Henry Smith's during the examination period, when several of the "regulars" were off, Sutherland being the chief bowler with 7 wickets for 7 runs, and Fenny and Sowler (who carried his bat) 10.

Among those who deserve special mention for deeds of valour are : A. Walton (Captain), Jaques (a most consistent fast bowler), Ions, Shields (who obtained the highest score of the season), Kirtley who refused to quit the crease even when "heaven and earth were falling" and so often saved the school from collapse, Coates (greatest number of wickets in the season) and D. McKecknie, the only batsman to top the 100 runs mark, who not only proved a source of annoyance to fielders but one of amusement to spectators.

Tennis.

The Tennis Tournament this year, although interfered with by exceptionally wet weather, was carried to a most successful conclusion. D. Simpson proving a popular winner. The stalwarts of last year's competition were mostly eliminated in the opening rounds, dismissed to a considerable extent by the mighty Simpson whose flashing "blade" wrought havoc in their ranks. The Runner-up in the tournament, A. Green, played consistently and well and was a very strong contestant for the trophy. The blight on the year's sport was further felt in the abandonment of the annual Tennis match with the Girls' School.

Badminton.

The Badminton Club had an extraordinarily successful season, but was unable to obtain any fixtures with other clubs.

The Literary and Historical Society.

The Literary and Historical Society held another successful session. Attendances of 45 were recorded on more than one occasion and the membership of the society was more than 60. A popular feature of the session was the lectures, of which there were five: Crozier told us of a journey he had recently been able to take in Central Europe; the Rector of Redmarshall gave an illustrated account of "How we got our Bible." The Rev. J. A. Bennett, of Brunswick Wesleyan Church, related to us how during the War he had gone from Bagdad to Constantinople, and showed us a set of lantern slides which must be almost unique. Next, Dr. Idris Jones, of the Synthetic, with suitable experiments, proved to us that "Science can be made Profitable." Finally, Mr. Pumphrey, of Thornaby, gave us a Lantern Lecture on "A Tour in North America." We take this opportunity of thanking these gentlemen for their kindness.

As usual, debates formed the largest part of the session's activities, Both Stockton Grammar School and Middlesbrough High School were welcomed. Berry was the honorary member and appropriately enough his House, the Green House, was the winner of the Shield. We agreed that the Pen is mightier than the Sword, but Green House got the better of the Blue House in a debate "That the invention of Flying has not improved the happiness of mankind." The Co-operative System was discussed and a motion that "Science is the root of all evil." These were among the best attended and most enjoyable of the meetings, but the one which was awaited with almost breathless excitement was a debate against the girls of the Secondary School. In this we were not disgraced, though it would be ungallant and unwise to suggest that we got the better of the argument with the serried ranks of incipient womanhood. We wish to thank Miss Nelson for allowing this meeting to take place. The thanks of the Society are also due to the enthusiastic and efficient manner in which Sowler discharged the duties of Secretary.

A School Journey.

In recent years a long interrupted series of school journeys has been revived. We have visited Richmond, Durham, Whitby and Rievaulx, each with pleasure, but never thought that we should be able to report a school journey which took us beyond the sea; but such is the case. During the first week of September, 1931, sixteen boys of Stockton Secondary School and two Masters were tramping in the Rhine Valley.

They started from Cologne and finished at Lorelei, just beyond Boppard. And now that they have returned they have often looked at their atlases and reflected how such a small portion of the map of Germany could contain such long roads and so many steep hills. For a "mile and a bit" often seems very long if you are carrying all your immediate possessions in a rucksack at the end of a twenty-five kilometre walk. Nevertheless, it is rumoured that some at least of the party would willingly return if another such excursion were arranged. Pictorial evidence exists that the week was not all hard tramping; and who shall forget the kindness of the Managers of the Youth Hostels at Hammerstein and Engers, or the journey by steamer from Boppard to Bonn? We were near to crawling up the rock at Lorelei on our hands and knees, but by next morning we had so far recovered as to frisk down it like so many lambs in spring.

Lastly, we shall remember all our lives our good friends Hermann, Hans, and Miss Keller. It is strange to reflect that not so long ago we should have been expected to refer to them as Huns; but Hans and his mouth organ, Hermann with his ready smile and efficient organisation and Erna, with her supervision of "haversack rations," have charmed all that out of our breasts. Henceforward our advice to friends will be "Go to Germany if you want a kind welcome, and if you want a cheap and sufficiently comfortable holiday, travel third class and stay in the Youth Hostels."

Chess Tournament.

The number of entries received for the Tournament this year was most encouraging, fourteen competitors lining up at the starting point. The standard of play too was higher than usual, many of the former rabbits now having outgrown their rabbithood. Of the older players, Aitken, who beat Warwick in the final round and thereby won the "A. W. Welch Shield" for the second year in succession, enhanced his already great international reputation : while Shields, Kirtley and Neale, if as yet lacking in initiative, gave promise of future greatness.

Mention too should be made of the infant Gedling who with more experience may easily prove a regular David among the sixth form Goliaths.

School Speech Day.

One of the most successful and enjoyable of our Speech Days was that which took place on 12th December, 1930, in the Jubilee Hall. The greater part of the success of the function was doubtless due to the chief speaker of the evening—The Right Reverend The Lord Bishop of Durham; but to say that, is by no means to suggest that the other features of the programme were unimportant.

The general aspect of the crowded hall, filled as it was with parents, friends and boys, was in itself an augury of success which was increased by the large and representative platform party around the prize table laden with serried ranks of books, cups and shields. And it is pleasant to record that the affair began promptly and ended just at the right time, being neither too long nor too short.

That good and trusted friend of the School, Mr. R. Roger, J.P., Chairman of the Governors, presided, and in a few brief but happy words, opened the proceedings, and, later, called upon His Lordship to present the prizes and deliver his address.

After accomplishing the first part of his duties and saying a word and giving a handshake of congratulation to each prize winner, the Bishop gave a characteristically inspiring and deeply interesting address in which the grave and the gay were subtly blended. He impressed on his hearers the splendid opportunities now being offered them of acquiring that sound and rounded education upon which so much useful work and happiness in after life depend. Among the various elements which go to make up complete living, a sense of humour, he said, was by no means the least important. No man's sense of humour was exactly alike, yet much that was drab in the ordinary day-to-day existence could be lightened and relieved by viewing things with that saving grace of humour which could be shared by one's fellow men. He pointed his moral with the tale of Dr. Busby, of Eton, and the boy who had eaten his plums. His Lordship also emphasised the glorious heritage which his hearers were privileged to use: their native speech, he said, and their own literature were the finest in the world. Let the pupils of this school remain ever faithful to their great traditions as Englishmen and so help to make things well with the world in which they live.

The Headmaster, in his Report, said that the examination successes touched the figure of 84%—a most creditable result in view of the fact that the average percentage of the country was 66. He pointed out that these successes were gained on a Four Year's Course, and not, as in so many schools, after one of five years. He mentioned the various activities of the school and told how capably and enthusiastically they had been carried on. The Literary and Historical Societies were flourishing, the Football teams were more than holding their own, and Athletics and Swimming were of a high standard. He also emphasised the good work being done in connection with the Wednesday Afternoon Concerts; in these days of "tinned music" and of a general lack of opportunity to hear really good music, he was quite certain that nowhere in the whole district was better music to be heard than in the School Hall every Wednesday.

It was with pleasure, he said, that he referred to the recent formation of an Inter House Musical Festival, the prize for which was a handsome silver cup. He also mentioned such other innovations as the Art Club, the Saving Certificate Association, the monthly Vocational Lectures which were being delivered by gentlemen representing various callings, and the Exhibition which would be annual of Art and Handicraft.

Alluding to the lengthy list of successes gained during the past session by Old Boys, Dr. Kinnes maintained that it was a list which not only shed lustre on the Old Boys and their School but also was a real inspiration to all present pupils. The O.B. Association, too, was flourishing and doing much good work in various directions.

He concluded his Report by thanking the numerous friends of the School for their interest and assistance afforded so readily in so many ways. He also expressed his sincere gratitude to each member of the staff for the kindly and able help rendered him from his first day in their midst.

Councillor Newton, proposing a Vote of Thanks to His Lordship for distributing the prizes and his most interesting address, announced that the new school, so long a thing of talk and conjecture, was really going to materialise. The preliminaries were completed, and very soon, he said, bricks and mortar would appear on the new site.

Mr. Eden, the Deputy Headmaster, briefly and felicitously seconded the proposal, which was carried unanimously and enthusiastically.

The enjoyment of the whole proceedings was very greatly increased by the delightful songs and singing of Mr. G. Kay's Choir, and the big audience took full advantage of the invitation offered them to join heartily in the chorus of "A Drunken Sailor."

To wind up the evening, a performance was given of the Watch Scene from "Much Ado About Nothing," in which S. Proud, H. Stephenson, G. S. G. Stokes, F. W. Bowen, H. G. Miller, B. Berry, C. Craig, M. Sutherland, H. Rigg and A. Walton showed marked talent and afforded great pleasure to all present.

Music.

At school, not so very long ago, we used to learn a beautiful piece of poetry, to make us remember the rhythm of the elegiac couplet; it ran:—

Down in a deep dark pit a sow sat munching a cabbage,
Out of her mouth came forth harmonious melody.

Now the assembly room is not exactly a deep dark pit—though not over light and something cold,—nor was the music heard there of the kind described, but in the assembly room and in the gymnasium we have had melody, harmony, aye and counterpoint too, at our Wednesday afternoon music makings. These have been attended by a faithful band of keen enthusiasts—not very numerous but truly a fit audience. Some people think that there should be a larger attendance from the older boys of the fifth and sixth forms, but they do not realise that it is no small matter to ask a boy to postpone his tea for half-an-hour or so for anything so slight as Beethoven or Wagner! The fare provided last winter was of excellent standard and very varied. Among the works performed were Phantasie Trio, Frank Bridge; 'Cello Sonata, Rubinstein; Violin Sonata, Grieg; The Trout Quintet, Schubert; and Kleine Nachtmusik, Mozart. Miss Hogg and Mr. J. M. Jones, B.Sc., sang to us, Mrs. Livingston showed us what expert harp playing was like, while there were also piano solos and duets, and duets for two pianos. We are very much indebted and offer our most cordial thanks to Mrs. J. Livingston, Misses Hogg and E. Watson, and Messrs. H. Spottiswoode, L. Knox, R. Robinson, J. Foster, J. Creek, J. Toulson Clark, and J. M. Jones, all of whom have come and discoursed sweet music with a skill which is rare, and a willingness which does honour to their keenness and kindness.

The House Music Competition produced some very promising performances, vocal and instrumental. Perhaps we may specially mention the careful technique and thoughtful rendering of one of the Beethoven sonatas by wee D. Bryan. Mr. Kay very kindly acted as judge, and his address in summing up contained much wise advice, which could not fail to be of benefit to the competitors. The Red House were awarded the House Music Cup, and the Blue House were placed second.

A small school orchestra is now in being. We do not place our achievements too high, but every man is loyal and keen and we believe everyone enjoys the practices (preceded as they are by a tea in common). We muster now all told about fifteen. We have performed twice at Wednesday music makings and may even boldly dare a larger audience ere long. Meanwhile we should be very glad to welcome boys who can play an orchestral instrument, and would suggest to keen parents that boys with some knowledge of music already might take up an orchestral instrument in addition—with due care that practice does not interfere either with school work or with health.

OLD BOYS' REPORTS.

The Ninth Annual Lecture.

We have had it on good authority that the Old Boys' Lecture is regarded in Stockton as one of the outstanding events of the year. This is, of course, as it should be, and certainly the big crowd which filled the Jubilee Hall on the 20th Feb., 1931 seemed to be agog with pleasurable anticipation. And this anticipation was well founded, for, from the moment Mr. Will Owen, the famous black and white artist stepped on to the platform to the end of his illustrated lecture, a continuous and hearty chuckle resounded from all parts of the building. It was indeed a joy to behold in the flesh the portraitist of that immortal band of happy warriors Sam Small, Ginger Dick and Peter Russett, of those omnipresent Bisto Kids, and of hosts of others.

Mr. Owen showed himself almost as witty a speaker as he is an artist: almost, but not quite. When, in the second part of his entertainment, he allowed lantern slides of his drawings to speak for themselves, the above-mentioned chuckle became loud and prolonged laughter. If it is true that laughter is the best tonic, many a citizen of Stockton must have gone home that night feeling better in health and spirits than he had done for many a long day!

And later, when the Artist offered to do lightning sketches of such celebrities as Charlie Chaplin, Henry VIII and the like, there was as much admiration in the applause as there was amusement. The Headmaster, who, by the way, was the only member of the audience bold enough to sit for his caricature, found himself in the role of a kind of Music Hall turn, for as his attempts at satisfying his perhaps natural curiosity to see how his fancy portrait was progressing under Mr. Owen's nimble pencil, and yet at the same time to maintain the frozen immobility necessary to the true artist's model, seemed to afford a great deal of innocent mirth to the audience.

Mr. Owen kindly auctioned his sketches and allowed the proceeds to be devoted to our own funds.

A neatly expressed vote of thanks to Mr. Owen, made by Mr. Winn, brought to an end one of our most successful Old Boys' Lectures.

Children's Treat.

Jackie Wilson told me what a fine time he'd had last year at the Boys' Secondary School so I was awfully anxious to go this time. Well I got because teacher said I had been doing my sums just beautiful and Mother said Well be sure and behave nicely and say please and thank you and not be too greedy and be sure to bring something home in your pocket for your little sister the poor lamb that she is. So I said I would and I had my face washed something cruel but I felt all right again by the time I met Jackie Wilson at the gates of the big school. We went into a tremendous big room all lighted-up with pretty things hanging on the walls and on the roof and great big long tables with piles of cakes and buns and all the nicest things you see in bakers' windows and lots of those cocoa-nut things with white sugar on them that Mother said I will be able to buy when I am big. So I said to myself Well I must have some of these anyhow so as to see if they really taste as nice as they look. And I did and they were just lovely. And there was a lot of people all dressed up in funny clothes and they were very nice and kept trying to make you eat more and more. And there was a tremendous big Christmas Tree all lighted with candles and with toys and things on it. Jackie said that these were presents and that Father Christmas would come and give them to us afterwards. So I said these funny-dressed men must be very kind and he said Of course they are just wait till tea is finished and you will see some fine things. So after tea we all went into another big room where we sang songs as loud as we could and the funny-dressed men kept saying we were'n't singing loud enough. But I was for I was just sore with singing. Well one of the funny-dressed men who was very tall said he'd pick sides at loud singing and his side was sure to win. I was on his side and we all yelled as loud as we could and the grown up people kept telling us to sing louder. I laughed so much I could'n't yell properly for a long time. Then another funny man said his side could sing loudest but it did'n't and he had a fight with our big funny man but of course they were just pretending. Jackie Wilson fell off his seat with laughing and my face and my inside were sore with laughing too. Then when we were having a rest a man did all kinds of funny things and you could'n't see how they were done. It was just wonderful but I wish he'd told us how to do it because when I told Mother about it she said Well it just needs practice. But I have been practicing ever since to make a pack of cards do what you told them but they won't do it yet. Then we had more singing and then we had an awfully funny Punch and Judy Show. We all laughed like anything when Punch whacked every body with his stick and his voice was so funny and squeaky just like my little sister's at night and I was glad I had remembered to put some of those cocoa-nut things with white sugar on them in my pocket though they got a bit squashy. Then an awfully pretty lady recited some poetry and we all clapped and whistled for more but just then we heard the sound of an aeroplane and the big funny man told us it was Father Christmas arriving. Of course we just laughed because he was always saying funny things but sure enough Father Christmas came into the big room all dressed up just as you see in the Pictures. I asked Jackie where the aeroplane was but he could'n't tell me because just then Father Christmas called out his name and he went and got a Christmas present. And we all got presents and I got a lovely box of tin soldiers and my little sister loves to play with them too but Mother says I must be careful she does'n't swallow them. Well the next thing was we all said goodbye to Father Christmas and the funny-dressed men gave us a bag of oranges and apples and a penny and Mother said when I got home Good gracious child you must'n't eat any more or you will be sick the same as Jackie Wilson was last year. And she said You have been a long time at your fine party but it did'n't seem long to me and I just wish there was another party to-morrow with those funny-dressed men and the Punch and Judy and those cocoa-nut things with white sugar on them and all the other nice things. But amn't I just looking forward to next Christmas and I am doing my lessons very carefully and teacher said to-day I was still doing my sums beautifully so it just shows you does'n't it.

The Stocktonians' Fourteenth Annual Dinner.

The shades of evening had fallen. Along the brilliantly lighted streets of the great city hurried the cheery throng, surging here and there before the gay glitter of the shop windows, for it was near to Christmas and eager shoppers were intent on solving the annual problem. Unheeded by these happy jostling crowds, away down a dark alley leading from the great main thoroughfare from time to time would slip sinister looking men—sometimes singly, sometimes in twos or threes.

Through a low doorway down breakneck steps into a dark dank cellar they passed, then along a narrow passage into a brilliant and beautiful room blazing with all the radiance of the orient, but showing its western modernity by the presence of a silver-mounted telephone conveniently placed by each graded chair. Amid a hushed silence....

(Dear! dear! there we have been and gone and done it again. You see our Christian name happens to be Wallace, and we are so fond of poor dear Edgar! and just because we have been reading "On the spot or Dogging for Dogged Doggers" our pen has run away with us. This second paragraph is all wrong, and even the first isn't faultless—some of the men were not sinister-looking. However the first paragraph can stand.)

Indoors, in a brilliantly-lighted room, with beautifully set-out tables, intellectual-looking gentlemen gathered in cheery conversation or, moving from group to group, exchanged here and there a word of recognition and greeting. For this was Monday, December 22nd., and the occasion was the Old Stocktonian Dinner. Some seventy-five Old Boys were present, splendidly representative of all generations,—old friends from the distant nineties and a really good company of boys of yester year. These last we were specially pleased to see for good habits, as well as bad, are formed in youth.

In due course—or rather in four due courses—dinner was served, and the next fifty or sixty minutes were devoted to mastication and absorption,—as our doctor guests might (but probably would not) have expressed it,—not unaccompanied by lively chatter and intermittent laughter. The play of knife and fork having ceased we proceeded to the more serious, if not more satisfying, business of the evening.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Pickworth, President now for the third time, told us that he was as keen about the Association to-day as he was at the time of its inception now seventeen years ago. He welcomed to our feast the honoured guests of the evening, Dr. Dickie, eminent as navigator and as surgeon—what the Seven Seas had lost the science of surgery had gained,—Dr. Hall, who has so constantly devoted himself to the service of the Association especially in connection with the annual lecture, and Mr. Roger, Chairman of our Governors, a real friend to the Association, and one whose presence is an honour and a pleasure which never fails year by year.

Mr. Roger replied to the welcome of the President. He left us in some doubt as to whether or not the fact that he had been asked to speak at such short notice had spoilt his dinner. He was pleased to see present so many young Stocktonians—it was surely a misnomer to call them Old Boys; those at the High Table were the real "Old Boys." He paid tribute to the fine fighting qualities of our President's esteemed father and of the late Mr. Ordish in the days when a Governors' Meeting might turn out to be a spirited adventure.

It fell to Mr. Kenneth Martin to propose the toast of the Old School. In classic fashion he had provided himself with a good supply of humorous anecdote upon which he drew at appropriate moments. He made rather an effective point against himself and his predecessors when he admitted that it had been suggested that, in view of the usual lavish expenditure of graceful storiottes on these occasions, the oak tree of the school crest might perhaps become a chestnut for the occasion of the dinner only! He also reminisced—as is becoming to successful old age. He recalled that a promising career seemed to have gone astray since the aspiring youth who affixed the flag to the topmost point of the school at Armistice time had made no subsequent noise in the world as a mountaineer. Turning to deeper matters he referred to the occasion, some two or three years earlier, when matrimonial confessions were the order of the evening, and darkly hinted that perhaps the honorary secretary was in some degree responsible for the fact that so many Old Stocktonian Boys had married Old Stocktonian Girls. He touched on a profound fact when he observed that in his early years the school seemed to be inhabited chiefly by gigantic masters and massive sixth-form boys superbly moulded in body and intellectual in appearance, whereas some four or five years later there seemed to be a plethora of small, unsporting second and third form boys and (comparatively) insignificant masters.

Dr. Kinnes, in replying to the toast, drew attention to the fact that to Old Boys a school is never so good in the present as in their day—like "Punch" it never is, and never was, so good as it used to be. But sentiments like these are but tokens of real affection, and it is no bad tribute to the excellence of a school when each successive generation of pupils as they pass on to the outer world is prepared to maintain against all comers that their school was at its best very in their own days. His own point of view was perhaps more detached, and he had no hesitation in assuring them that at present the school was in excellent case.

Dr. Dickie's speech was a thing of beauty, and to some of us a revelation. We think that we can feel the thrill of the "innumerable laughter" of the sparkles of light on summer waters, but the sight of lowering skies and heaving swell seen from the approaching railway train inevitably turns back our minds to regretful memories of the past, all too hearty, meal! But here was a living example of that salt in the blood which we like to think is characteristic of our island people, and which, in the realms of literature, has inspired the prose of Conrad (an Englishman, he, by heartfelt adoptions at least) and the verse of Masfield. Here was one who knew full well those moods of gray and sunless sullenness, who realised to the utmost its unpitiful and inexorable cruelty, and yet loved the sea with a love which was almost personal and expressed that love with an utterance which was almost poetry. His heart was in the days before smoke and commercialism had threatened the beauty of ships, and he was not afraid to hope for a future day when science would control the wind and use it once more as motive power, banishing far all of the engineer tribe with their foul reek and retaining even electricians solely as accessories to the men who really mattered, the true sailors,—the sailors of the white-winged clippers. He was glad to see that we did not scorn to educate our boys for the sea and noticed, with pleasure, that successes in nautical examinations received their meed of recognition in the Stocktonian alongside the successes in professional and academic examinations.

Stocktonians will hope that Dr. Dickie may have many happy years in the retirement to which he looks forward, and may long sail his new yacht on sunny seas before he goes aboard as a mere passenger on Charon's unattractive bark.

The President described himself as especially interested in Dr. Dickie's speech. The present time was not so happy for those connected with shipping as those fading days of which our guest had spoken. Shipbuilders and shipping magnates nowadays strained every nerve to raise the wind but only succeeded in getting the wind up! He then reviewed the activities of the Association for the past year, and spoke with feeling of our service of commemoration before the War Memorial when we remember those who "came not home again," and do not forget those other Old Boys who have preceded us. The inspiration of their lives, and the achievements of these Old Boys still living who have been granted a more normal span, must be potent for good to succeeding generations of Stocktonians..

The Association does its part in binding together Old Boys of all ages, and makes the spirit and tone of the School a living thing. As time goes on the older members look to the younger Old Boys and to the present and succeeding generations of Stocktonians to carry on the good work that has been so well begun.

In the intervals between the speeches Mr. Urwin and Mr. Lewis entertained us with harmony and humour. To them our grateful thanks.

The Community singing was not perhaps the success we had hoped. A new song book and paper of words were provided, but when a song was asked for only too often the words did not appear on the paper or, if we had the words, the tune could not be found in the book, or existed as an unaccompanied melody only. Still the opportunity was given to Mr. Martin (who ably conducted) to reproduce all his old gyratory contortions and to introduce several new ones and, if we missed the almost traditional "Ode to Tobacco" and "Forty Years On" we certainly retailed with considerable vim the successive transmogrifications of the hypothetical worm who might have had his origin on Ilkla Moor.

Benevolent Fund.

During the year, six calls were made on the above fund, and in each case the Trustees had no difficulty in deciding that the calls were genuine. One Old Boy was helped over a temporary financial difficulty, three Old Boys received assistance which may ensure them successful careers, a watching brief was kept over another Old Boy, while the sixth case concerned the partial curing of a very painful disease.

In such ways does the Benevolent Fund justify its existence, and to such useful service do the Trustees give their time and thought.

The balance of £63 at the bank at the beginning of the year was increased to £84 when the year ended, the main sources of income being the Will Owen Lecture, the grant made at the Annual General Meeting, and the repayment of loans.

Altogether, the Fund is in a very satisfactory financial position, and we may as the years go on look forward to a time of increasing usefulness.

Annual Dance, Jan. 30th, 1931.

Possibly more hard work was put into the organisation of this year's dance than is usually the case, and following current practice, the work was done by a very small number.

Quite a number of blasé and lazy members seem to imagine that functions of this sort require no organising, and are especially designed for the benefit of somebody else. An evening class in Ethics might provide an improved mental outlook.

The people who did attend were well rewarded for their effort and expenditure, for the function was one of the best ever provided by the Association.

In the first place only really pretty and sweet girls attended, and as they all wore their best bibs and tuckers the susceptibles were charmed from the commencement.

Secondly, the band, properly fed, were in their best vein and dispensed really excellent modern dance music. (Highbrows are requested to stamp all letters of complaint to the editor.)

Thirdly, although some gross persons think this comes first, a really fine feed was provided and everybody had as much as they wanted, or as much as they dared to eat in mixed company!

With such inducements a perfect evening was ensured, and even the dance secretary, who, suffering from tooth-ache spent nearly the whole of the evening on the very draughty door of the "Maison," was seen to brighten up visibly as the night progressed.

All too soon the event finished but the workers retired content with the pleasing sounds of genuine praise in their ears.

A milestone in the history of the Association was well and truly laid in a local café on the evening of January 16th.

A small band of revolutionary Old Boys had conceived the idea of holding a Pie Supper at a spot where strengthening food might be obtained and after much strenuous hawking of tickets (oh for a larger group of enthusiasts!) a select group was inveigled into the Vane Arms Hotel.

The blue ribands worn by the majority of the attenders added a pleasing touch of colour to a scene already made brilliant with dazzling glassware and shining pewter.

Once the eating was well under way, tongues wagged freely and a general atmosphere of geniality and hospitality was soon evident.

Eating ended, a piano (or the remains of a piano) was put into action and a number of rousing choruses were bellowed forth. Pauses for resuscitation of vocal chords were made at suitable intervals and during one of these pauses an old Boy (a famous Old Boy now) gave an interesting and vivid account of life in Cumberland during the early 70's ; as related to him by his grandfather who was seemingly a rival of that famous old huntsman John Peel.

This item concluded, he proceeded to give so realistic and noisy a demonstration of how foxes are chased in the Troutbeck area, that the enthusiasm of the sporting section was roused and the room resounded with Tally Ho's, Yoicks, and 'Up, Dolly Up's', finally bringing down complaints from sundry commercial travellers trying to find rest after their labours.

Surely a landmark, when such a staid Association as ours makes too much noise.

The sentimental rendering of Auld Lang Syne concluded a very pleasant and decidedly amusing evening.

One further point of note was that all the benedicks left before the end. Bachelors heed the inference and take due warning.

Presentation to Mr. Eden.

On the afternoon of Tuesday, 28th July, the school and a representative gathering of Old Boys assembled in the gymnasium to say an affectionate farewell to Mr. J. W. Eden, on the occasion of his retirement after over twenty-one years devoted work in the school, six of them as second master.

The presentation consisted of gifts of a dinner-wagon and book-case from Old Boys, a reading lamp from present scholars, and a coffee service and tray from the staff.

The first presentation was made on behalf of the boys by the headmaster, who spoke of the great debt the school owed to Mr. Eden's high sense of duty and faithful service. Dr. Livingston, speaking on behalf of the Old Boys, said the passage of years had brought home forcibly to him a keen sense of the greatness of Mr. Eden's example of singleminded devotion and a realisation of all he owed to his former master. As a schoolboy he had learned with others to respect Mr. Eden's fair-mindedness and justice, a fact which he illustrated with a neat little story which perhaps we ought not to repeat. Mr. Johnson, who followed, spoke of the affectionate regard he felt for Mr. Eden, a regard which had been strengthened by a more intimate knowledge of him gained in spheres beyond school.

Mr. Eden, whose opening words were spoken under stress of emotion, told us that in a sense he was looking back over a career of more than forty-five years as a schoolmaster and that the break would not be an easy one. He confessed—or at any rate shall we say pretended so to do—to having always experienced a feeling of nervousness in appearing before a form of boys. This statement, though it charmed us all and perhaps flattered us somewhat, we were really unable to believe. In future days he would eagerly look forward to hearing great things of the school and its pupils and to rejoicing in their successes.

Later, in the course of the senior form party, Mr. Eden gave us a parting titbit in the form of a recitation in another language he professes, the dialect of the North Riding, a recitation which we all enjoyed if none understood!

Congratulations to G. P. Dee, S. Whitelaw, R. Rutherford (Japan), J. Morland, T. Richardson—all of whom are now in a position to testify to the hitherto unappreciated delights of single blessedness

A welcome visitor to the school during the year was A. Nettleship (home from Canada) who gave us news of A. Plowman, A. E. Bishop, and T. Saunders, while in our travels we have encountered F. Fender (home from Africa), B. Prest (home from Calcutta), and E. W. Eden (home from Venezuela) who had much to tell us of W. L. Bouch.

Our Photographs.

In electing Mr. C. W. Allison, the senior labour member of the Stockton Town Council, as our President for 1931-2, we believe we have secured a gentleman who, in the words of Hilaire Belloc,

“ In public life has always tried
To take a judgment broad and wide :
In private none is more than he Renowned for quiet courtesy.”

Mr. M. Hale: goalkeeper, referee, business man—and successful in each capacity—has the personality and charm of manner which may carry him very far: Dock Manager at Hull.

Mr. H. Lodge: keeps goal for Whitby and adorns a position which calls for grit, clear thinking, and quick decision.

Mr. F. R. Lax: recently created a Magistrate at Pickering, will bring to that office a humanity, a judgment, and a business capacity which will serve him well: one of the older Old Boys who shed lustre on the school which they are proud to call their own.

Mr. T. Hagyard: Ph.D. and 1st Class Honours man of London University—a very distinguished Old Boy indeed.

Mr. L. W. Pennock: an Inspector of Taxes, who has fulfilled the promise which he always showed at school.

Mr. D. McIntyre: an A.R.I.B.A., for whom a very bright future is predicted.

Mr. R. Metcalfe: B.A. (1st Class Honours at Manchester University)—a young Old Boy whose career so far has been rosy in achievement.
